

Requirements Based Project Management Software

R-Matrix combines the power of requirements tracking with key management tools to ensure project traceability and success.

The key ingredient to any successful project is the creation and management of project requirements. The R-Matrix software helps project teams translate project requirements into project tasks that can be easily tracked to completion. The R-Matrix® software features all the necessary tools and features to help each project team members fulfill their responsibilities and contribute to a winning project.

R-Matrix® brings together a suite of powerful modules that provide traceability back to the project requirements. Included in R-Matrix® are modules for management of requirements, design elements, issues, test cases, and builds. Powerful reporting, notifications, action item tracking and more are included to complete the robust set of features included in R-Matrix®.
